DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election without traverse of Group I (claims 1-9) in Paper No. 7 is acknowledged.

Claims 10 thru 23 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in Paper No. 7.

Drawings

2. The drawings are objected to because element 11 should be element 11 in FIG. 1. See page 3, line 10. A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

3. The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the thin film transistors and data lines and gate lines being formed between the second substrate and the second orientation film (claim 3) must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 1, 3, and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Cacharelis 6,373,543 B1. Cacharelis discloses (see, for example, FIG. 1) a liquid crystal display comprising a first substrate 104, second substrate 106, first orientation film 111a, second orientation film 111b, and liquid crystal 102. The thickness of the second orientation film 111b clearly varies along its entire length. Regarding claim 3, see pixel electrodes 112a, 112b which are components of thin film transistors that consist of gate lines and data lines. Regarding claim 8, the orientation films are directed parallel to the substrates.

6. Claims 1, 2, and 4 thru 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Takao et al. 4,917,471. Takao discloses (see, for example, FIG. 2) a liquid crystal display comprising a first substrate 13, second substrate 12, first orientation film 18, second orientation film 17, and liquid crystal 14. Regarding claims 2, 4-6, the second orientation film has correspondingly the greatest thickness over the highest blue filter, a medium thickness over the medium green filter, and the smallest thickness over the smallest red filter. Regarding claim 7, see, for example, column 4, line 2 wherein Takao states the liquid crystal as ferroelectric.

Regarding claim 8, the orientation films are directed parallel to the substrates.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

7. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

8. Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Takao et al. 4,917,471. Takao does not disclose the total thickness of the respective orientation film of a pixel of each color being different from one another by approximately 0.01 to 0.1 μm . However, Takao shows (see FIG. 2) the orientation film thickest over the blue filter and the thinnest over the red filter with the thickness of the orientation film over the green filter being in between. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention was made to use this range for the different thicknesses of the orientation film over each pixel in order to accommodate the different sizes of the color filters, and since it has been held that where the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, discovering the optimum or working ranges involves only routine skill in the art. In re Aller, 105 USPQ 233.
